KEY INFORMATION

Safeguarding

Types of abuse and neglect

Abuse: A form of maltreatment of a child which involves inflicting harm or failing to act to prevent harm. Children may be abused in a family, institutional or community setting by those known to them or, more rarely, by others, e.g. via the internet.

Physical abuse: A form of abuse which may involve actions such as hitting, throwing, burning, drowning and poisoning, or otherwise causing physical harm to a child. Physical abuse can also be caused when a parent fabricates the symptoms of, or deliberately induces, illness in a child.

Emotional abuse: A form of abuse that involves the emotional maltreatment of a child to cause severe and adverse effects on the child's emotional development. This may involve telling a child they are worthless, unloved, inadequate, not giving them the opportunities to express their views, deliberately silencing them, or often making them feel as though they are in danger.

Sexual abuse: A form of abuse that involves forcing or enticing a child to take part in sexual activities, not necessarily involving a high level of violence, and whether or not the child is aware of what is happening. This may involve physical assault, such as penetrative assault and touching, or non-penetrative actions, such as looking at sexual images or encouraging children to behave in inappropriate ways.

Neglect: A form of abuse that involves the persistent failure to meet a child's basic physical and/or psychological needs, likely to result in serious impairment of a child's health or development. This may involve providing inadequate food, clothing or shelter, or the inability to protect a child from physical or emotional harm or ensure access to appropriate medical treatment.

Indicators of abuse and neglect in children

When identifying children at risk of potential harm, staff members will look out for a number of indicators including, but not limited to, the following:

- Injuries in unusual places, such as bite marks on the neck, that are also inconsistent with their age
- Lack of concentration and acting withdrawn
- Knowledge ahead of their age, e.g. sexual knowledge.
- Use of explicit language • Fear of abandonment • Depression and low self-esteem

Vulnerable People

The term vulnerable adults refers to people of 18 and over "who are or maybe in need of community care services by reason of mental or other disability, age or illness or lack of opportunity; and who is or maybe unable to take care of him or herself, or unable to protect him or herself against significant harm or exploitation".

Safeguarding means protecting an adult's right to live in safety, free from abuse and neglect. It is about people and organisations working together to prevent and stop both the risks and experience of abuse or neglect, while at the same time making sure that the adult's wellbeing is promoted including, where appropriate, having regard to their views, wishes, feelings and beliefs in deciding on any action.

Adult protection concerns the violation of an individual's human and civil rights by another person or persons.

Abuse can include: verbal, physical, financial/material, sexual, psychological, discriminatory, emotional abuse and neglect. Abuse can take place in any setting, public or private, and can be perpetrated by anybody.

Handling a disclosure

If a child a young person or vulnerable person tells you about something that is happening or has happened to them then we must remember the following procedure:

- React as calmly as possible
- Ensure the immediate safety of the young person
- Reassure the person: “you’ve done the right thing by telling me”
- Take what they say seriously – evidence shows it will be almost certainly truthful
- Don’t make promises not to tell – you will need to share it
- Don’t prompt but ask open questions gently and slowly: “What”, “When”, “Who”, “Where.”
- Fill in a Report of Concern as soon as possible. The link is on the Club’s website
- Take advice from the Safeguarding Team at the first opportunity

Prevent

What is Prevent?

Prevent is about safeguarding and supporting those vulnerable to radicalisation. Prevent is one of four elements of CONTEST, the government's counter-terrorism strategy. It aims to stop people becoming terrorists or supporting terrorism.

WHAT DOES PREVENT DO?

Responds to the ideological challenge we face from terrorism and aspects of extremism, and the threat we face from those who promote these views.

Provides practical help to prevent people from being drawn into terrorism and ensure they are given appropriate advice and support.

Works with a wide range of sectors (including education, criminal justice, faith, charities, online and health) where there are risks of radicalisation that we need to deal with.

STOP

The main aim of Prevent is to stop people becoming terrorists or supporting terrorism

PROTECT

At the heart of Prevent is safeguarding children and adults and providing early intervention to protect and divert people away from being drawn into terrorist activity

PREVENT

Prevent addresses all forms of terrorism, but continues to ensure resources and effort are allocated on the basis of threats to our national security

Prevent – Indicators of vulnerability (1)

Identity Crisis – the person is distanced from their cultural / religious heritage and experiences discomfort about their place in society

- Personal Crisis – the person may be experiencing family tensions; a sense of isolation; and low self-esteem; they may have dissociated from their existing friendship group and become involved with a new and different group of friends; they may be searching for answers to questions about identity, faith and belonging
- Personal Circumstances – migration; local community tensions; and events affecting the student / pupil's country or region of origin may contribute to a sense of grievance that is triggered by personal experience of racism or discrimination or aspects of Government policy
- Unmet Aspirations – the person may have perceptions of injustice; a feeling of failure; rejection of civic life
- Experiences of Criminality – which may include involvement with criminal groups, imprisonment, and poor resettlement /reintegration

Definitions and context

EXTREMISM is defined as vocal or active opposition to fundamental universal values, including democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty, and mutual respect, as well as the tolerance of deferent faiths and beliefs. There is no such thing as a 'typical extremist'. Those who become involved in extremism do so from a wide and eclectic mix of backgrounds and experiences. It should be borne in mind that many who hold extremist views do not go on to become involved in violent extremist activity.

RADICALISATION refers to the process by which a person comes to support terrorism and extremist ideology. Radicalisation can take place in a number of ways, though recent emphasis has been placed on the role of the internet in the process as well as the influence of powerful direct relationships on an individual.

CONTEXT It is important to recognise that the Prevent Duty within the Football Club is inherently different to those of a childcare professional, however, there are areas that will overlap which are highlighted as follows:

'The general risks affecting children and young people may vary from area to area, and according to their age. Schools and childcare providers are in an important position to identify risks within a given local context. It is important that schools and childcare providers understand these risks so that they can respond in an appropriate and proportionate way. There is no single way of identifying an individual who is likely to be susceptible to a terrorist ideology.'

Prevent – Indicators of vulnerability (2)

- Special Educational Need – people may experience difficulties with social interaction, empathy with others, understanding the consequences of their actions and awareness of the motivations of others

More critical risk factors could include:

- Being in contact with extremist recruiters
- Accessing violent extremist websites, especially those with a social networking element
- Possessing or accessing violent extremist literature
- Using extremist narratives and a global ideology to explain personal disadvantage
- Justifying the use of violence to solve societal issues
- Joining or seeking to join extremist organisations
- Significant changes to appearance and/or behaviour
- Experiencing a high level of social isolation resulting in issues of identity crisis and/or personal crisis

Prevention: The Club will provide training to its staff and volunteers in recognising, grooming in radicalisation behaviour. Training will be delivered in partnership with key organisations such as the Counter Terrorism Police on an annual basis.

Procedure: If there is any concern that a person is or may be exposed to or at risk in respect of radicalisation within the environs of Barrow AFC, you must refer this to the following:

Safeguarding Manager – Alison Jesson
Stadium Manager and Chief Safety Officer – Mike Forsyth

The Safeguarding Lead will report this to the appropriate authorities as outlined within the Safeguarding Children Policy and the Safeguarding Vulnerable Adults Policy.

The incident will also be recorded on the online Report of Concern on the club website – click here to access the form now.

Equality, Diversity & Inclusion

Barrow AFC is committed to encouraging equality, diversity and inclusion among our workforce within the Club, Community Trust and Academy setting, thus eliminating unlawful discrimination.

The aim is for our workforce to be truly representative of all sections of society, and for each employee to feel respected and able to give their best.

The Equality Code of Practice sets out key areas all EFL clubs should look to address to ensure they are inclusive across all areas of their business.

Barrow AFC has a reporting pathway to deal with any allegations of prejudice, ensuring that all individuals can raise their issue.

What constitutes unacceptable behaviour in football?

Discriminatory behaviour is anything that singles out a person or group from a particular audience, whether that's on the grounds of disability, gender, sexuality, race or religious beliefs. This might happen via chanting or shouting on the way to, or inside a football ground, or by making comments on social media channels.

Abusive behaviour is any behaviour which, whilst not necessarily discriminatory, causes offence to any individual or group. This could range from swearing at a player on the pitch to physical assaults, such as throwing items at opposing fans.

The FA, Premier League and Football League are all clear about this:

- Discrimination in any form is unacceptable
- Supporters shall not use racist, sexist, homophobic or other discriminatory language
- If you are not sure, report it.

Ground Regulations

are in place at every Premier League and Football League club and set out a number of behaviours that are not acceptable inside the ground, including: threatening behaviour, foul or abusive language, racial, homophobic or discriminatory abuse and harassment.

Penalties for abusive and discriminatory behaviour

Punishments for abusive behaviour by match participants can include:

- Life bans from a club or football
- Bans from playing affiliated football and related fines
- Bans from coaching or being involved in football at any level.

Punishments for abusive behaviour by spectators at a match can include:

- Arrest and appearance at court
- Ban from attending football matches at home and abroad for a minimum of three years, through the imposition of a Football Banning Order in a court of law
- Loss of season ticket, membership and/or the imposition of a ban by the football club that you support from attending matches at the club's home ground and from purchasing tickets for away matches
- Imprisonment; Fines; Criminal record; Restrictions of travel; Ejection from the stadium.

Grassroots level:

Incidents on the pitch at grassroots level are governed by the rules of Football and treated by The FA like all other disciplinary issues, although additional bodies may also be involved depending on the offence. If you have any questions, please contact Kick It Out or The FA.

Ray Wilkie said, “no one deserves it more than them” when talking of our backing after the Wembley win in 1990.

We believe that should be the case for everyone involved in Barrow AFC

This outlines clearly what we all expect and deserve as members of the Barrow AFC family:

- All employees to work in a positive and respectful manner with supporters, each other and the general public
- All fans can expect and deserve proper support and advice when following the Club
- They can expect to be listened to and their ideas and queries taken seriously
- All supporters will be treated with equal respect and kindness
- Everyone who follows Barrow AFC should be able to do so in a safe and secure manner
- Barrow AFC undertakes to ensure if supporters have a grievance there is a process to follow, which will be conducted in a fair and transparent manner
